Residents can join millions of people across the UK in hosting their own Big Lunch with neighbours on their street or estate this June

Bite into a Big Lunch

ESIDENTS are being urged to participate in The Big Lunch by organising a host of community get togethers.

The nationwide event on 17 and 18 June encourages neighbours to get to know each other better, with over 7million people taking part last year.

This year, there is even more reason to get involved, as it will coincide with The Great Get Together: a national celebration to mark the first anniversary of the murder of Jo Cox MP, who famously said 'we have far more in common with each other than things that divide us'. Hackney Community College is hosting an event on 17 June featuring food, music, debates, discussions, workshops and much more. Over 30 organisations will take part, including representatives from the major religions.

EATHERS, glitz and fabulous dance routines are set to return to the borough's streets on 10 September with the Hackney One Carnival.

As well as spectacular costumes and energetic dancing at the Council-run event, there will be sound systems and live music from around the world as Hackney takes centre stage for an all-day carnival extravaganza.

This year's route will begin and end on Queensbridge Road, just north of the Regent's Canal. Hundreds of performers will take to the streets, with a procession weaving through the borough to cheers from residents, all celebrating the borough's thriving culture, creativity and community cohesion.

There will also be an all-day children's play area in Gillett Square and another in Hackney Town Hall Square, from 12noon to 4pm, as well as a carnival finale party at Ridley Road and Gillett Square featuring global foods, art and music.

Schools and community groups will be involved in creating vibrant carnival decorations which will transform parts of the route into a riot of colour.

Pax Nindi, founder of the Global Carnival Centre and Creative Director of Hackney One Carnival, said: "Hackney's carnival is special because it comes directly from the Hackney community, it has a lovely communal feel, everyone gets involved, from young to old.

"As well as an amazing variety of costumes and music to get everyone dancing, the carnival brings everyone together to celebrate what is great about Hackney and have fun!"

Volunteers are wanted to help steward the procession, assist with the registration of carnival groups and other jobs on the day.

There are also some opportunities to get involved in the lead up to the event, helping to make costumes and other tasks.

To register your interest in becoming a volunteer, e-mail: carnival. sygmasafety@gmail.com

Any individual or group wanting to perform as part of Hackney One Carnival should complete the participation form which can be downloaded from: www.hackney.gov.uk/carnival. The deadline for returning forms is 13 June.

News in brief

Youngsters gear up for event

SCHOOLCHILDREN will be taking to Hackney's streets next month to discover their borough by bike and practice their cycling skills.

The sixth annual Bike Around the Borough event, which takes place on 29 June, will involve over 800 children from more than 35 schools all cycling together across Hackney.

Last year's event broke the world record for the most riders in a 'bike bus', with 983 children taking part. All along the route, pop-up motivation stations manned by other youngsters will contribute to the carnival atmosphere and spur the riders on.

Hackney aims to have 15 per cent of its residents travelling by bike for all journeys by 2025.

The borough has been recognised nationally for its innovative approaches to encouraging cycling and has the highest number of people cycling to work in London and the second highest number in England. Hoard is a national treasure HACKNEY'S very own golden hoard has been listed as one of the country's finest treasures.

People were invited to vote for their favourites to mark the 20th anniversary of the Treasure Act in England and the 'Hackney Hoard' made the top 20 list.

The incredible story of gold coins from the US dug up in a back garden, begins with a Jewish family fleeing Nazi Germany. In 1938, Martin Sulzbacher's family sought refuge in Hackney. He brought with him savings in gold coins. When war broke out, Martin was sent to Australia as a prisoner of war, while his wife and four children were interned on the Isle of Man. His parents, sister, brother and sister-in-law decided to bury the coins in two jars in the garden for safe keeping. Tragically, they were killed when the house was bombed in 1940 and all knowledge of the coins secret location was lost. Then by chance, in 1950, the first jar of coins was found by workmen. They were returned to Martin in 1952. The second jar was found in 2007, containing 80 American $20 'Double-Eagle' bullion coins dating from 1854-1913. Martin's children kindly donated one of the coins to Hackney Museum where it is on display. For details visit: www.hackney.gov.uk/museum

IHE Speaker of Hackney, Cllr Rosemary Sales, will hang up her ceremonial chain this month when her year-long role comes to an end.

She said: "It has been a wonderful and highly memorable year.

"Hackney is such a diverse place and being able to meet people from all different parts of the community and to represent the borough has been a great honour."

A councillor for Stamford Hill West ward, Cllr Sales has attended around 320 engagements and welcomed almost 1,000 new citizens to the borough, as well as raising over £20,000 for her chosen charities.

She brought her passion for music to the forefront of her role, helping to promote music in schools and the local community.

She also hosted a highly successful charity concert 'Hackney in Harmony' with talented musicians of all ages, in which she sang with her choir, the St John of Jerusalem Festival Chorus.

The role of Speaker fulfils ceremonial and public duties on behalf of the Council whilst raising awareness of, and money for, two nominated charities; Hackney Migrant Centre and North London Action for the Homeless.

Alongside her charity work, Cllr Sales has actively been promoting the need to fight racism and xenophobia.

She released a statement to address the rise in hate crime across London last summer stating that in Hackney 'there is no place for hate'.

She said: "Hackney has a proud tradition of bringing people from all walks of life and backgrounds together.

"It is one of the reasons Hackney is such a great place to live, we are

Other memorable moments for the Speaker include marching with the Council contingent at the London Pride parade last summer; taking part

She said: "I have lived in Hackney for over 40 years and I have been amazed at the amount of community activity I have seen over the past year across the borough. of Hackney - in our schools, neighbourhoods, and communities - that helps build that community spirit and makes Hackney the great place it is.'

ORE than 10,000 runners took to the streets for the Hackney Half Marathon, passing some of the borough's most famous landmarks on route.

From first timers to experienced athletes, the runners were cheered on by residents who lined the streets as they raced or jogged past Hackney Downs, Hackney Empire, Broadway Market, and Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park.

Sir Richard Branson fired the starting pistol at the event on 30 April, which also featured the first ever Festival of Fitness on Hackney Marshes. As well as the half marathon, organisers Virgin Sport laid on a new 5.5k run on closed roads around the marshes, along with a dance session, yoga and other exercise classes from top instructors. There was street food and drink on offer, and the Hackney Playbus parked up to keep the smallest runners entertained.

The popular Schools Challenge also returned. Hundreds of primary school pupils completed the final stretch of their 13.1 mile challenge, which they achieved by running one mile a week.

Paul Whittaker completed the men's race in 1:06:55 and Isabel Clark, won the women's with a time of 1:18:15.

She said: "It was a great course, so much crowd support, really enjoyable and a personal best. I can't complain really!"

Hackney Forest School programmes give youngsters the chance to explore the natural environment in all weathers

The great outdoors

AKING mud cakes, climbing trees and building dens all improve educational outcomes: that's the message of Hackney Forest School, which launches with a fun day at Clapton Park Children's Centre.

The free, family event will allow children to see what a typical day is like with the forest school. Other activities include massages, hula hooping, face painting and tree planting.

The first 10 children to sign up for the school will receive an additional free session for their family.

Forest schools started in Scandinavia and give

My favourite thing about forest school is that we get to go out and play and have fires and eat marshmallows children, aged five to eight, the opportunity to explore the natural environment in all weathers. Research shows that learning in the great outdoors has a positive impact on children's wellbeing.

Programmes based at Clapton Park Children's Centre run throughout the year, with youngsters going to the woods and Hackney Marshes in all weathers.

Sessions range from children only groups to parent and children outdoor workshops.

Hackney resident Tommy Walsh, of TV's 'Groundforce' fame, will officially open the school, which has already run a successful pilot initiative.

Georgia Norman, seven, from Clapton, has been attending.

She said: "My favourite thing about Forest School is that we get to go out and play and have fires and eat marshmallows."

Charlotte Norman, Georgia's mum, added: "It's always a delight to pick up Georgia after a forest school session. We feel very lucky that this is right on our doorstep and now we have the dilemma that the older one wants to join too."

The Hackney Forest School fun day is on from 12noon to 4pm, on 10 June.

Recycling rewards scheme reveals latest winners

THE latest batch of Hackney Recycling Rewards winners has been announced with £100 given to 44 winners and £40 to 103 runners-up.

The quarterly prizes are presented to residents who recycle the most in their area.

Since its launch last October, 28,000 residents have signed up to the reward scheme.

The Council measures the amount of rubbish and recycling produced by each of the borough's 21 wards.

When a ward recycles more and wastes less, all of its members earn points. Every three months, 147 vouchers are given out to those members who have earned the most points.

All households can participate, residents just have to activate a free account to get started.

Members can also vote and win money for local charities, as well as using a membership card or app for offers and discounts in over 100 local shops.

Ruth from Lea Bridge ward won a £40 One4All voucher. She said: "I was recycling prior to joining the scheme, but now I have won a voucher for simply recording my efforts."

To sign up, visit: www. hackney.gov.uk/recycling-rewards. There is a limit of one account per household.

ROWING up on Kingsmead Estate had its advantages and disadvantages," says Lloyd Boateng.

He adds: "It was hard to find positive role models and aspirations to follow.

"But on the other hand, it gave me the personal skills so I can relate to the stuff that's actually going on in Hackney right now."

Today, Lloyd is a role model in his own right.

For the past six years, his organisation Born 4 Sport has been improving the health and wellbeing of Hackney residents from six to 60-years-old.

In schools and community centres across the borough, his team mentor kids, train unemployed young people as sports instructors, teach ball skills to reception-age kids and fitness to pensioners, and work with disabled members of the Jewish community.

"We hit 750 new participants in Hackney every year, and it changes lives, health, ambitions and outlooks. Sport can have a really transformative power over people of all ages," he says.

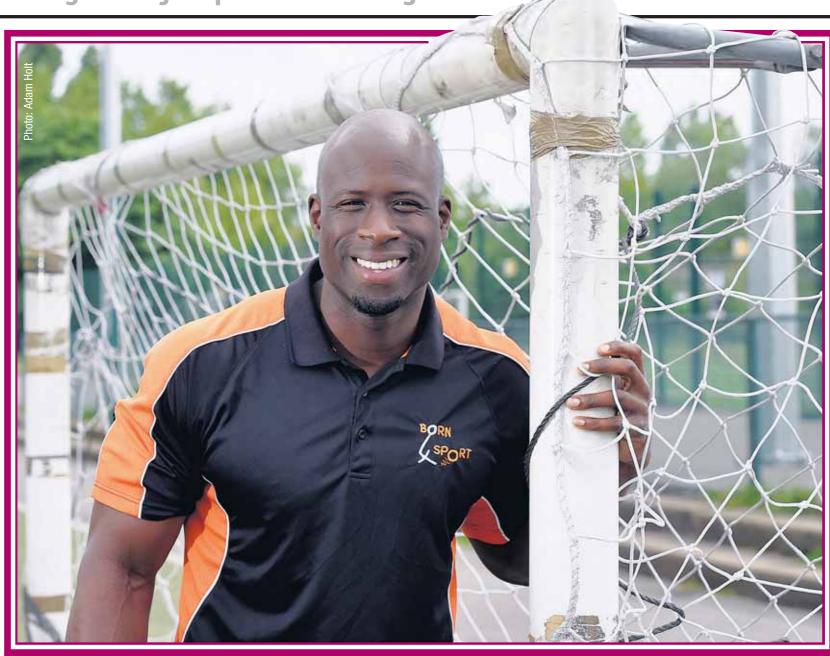

Lloyd knows what he's talking about. As a young boy 'football was everything' to him.

He says: "I played for Tottenham and Arsenal as a kid. It was all I ever wanted to do."

When he left school and signed to play for Wycombe Wanderers, it seemed all his dreams had come true.

Soon, however, those dreams started to unravel.

He explains: "I went from the professional

Lloyd Boateng made the leap from professional footballer to businessman, at the age of 21, when he set up the Born 4 Sport organisation in Hackney

I had no formal business training at all, I had to learn everything on the job. But I knew that people had a real need for this

Lloyd's fresh career goals

game to playing for a conference side. It was disheartening, and I wasn't enjoying it.

"But still, it was scary to say to myself: that's it, I'm going to stop. It felt like such a huge decision."

In 2010, however, he made another leap.

Lloyd says: "I wanted to create opportunities for kids where I came from." And so Born 4 Sport was born.

He laughs: "I had no formal business training at all. I had to learn everything on the job.

"But I was 21 and quite fearless and I knew that people had a real need for this so I just leapt straight in."

He was right. Demand for the organisation's services has really grown.

Today, Born 4 Sport is beginning to expand from Hackney into other North London boroughs.

But its programmes are not just about sport.

He says: "Providing decent role models and positive aspirations for our participants is a huge part of what we do."

For example, a young man called Ohara Davies was one of the company's first participants.

Today he is a WBC (World Boxing Council) silver champion and comes back to take Born 4 Sport sessions and speak to its young participants.

And, for the past few years, Lloyd has been taking small groups of unemployed young people from the estate on which he grew up, training them up as sports coaches and then employing them to work in the community.

"We even try to get our young people tickets to see real football games, because so many have never had the chance to do that before.

"You'd be amazed at the impact something so simple has, their behaviour in school improves, their enthusiasm rockets.

"It's about giving them the sense that things are possible for them, if they want them and if they put the effort in."

Antiuniversity Now 2017

10-16 June, various locations across the borough

REVOLUTION is on the class list for this year's Antiuniversity Now. A re-imagining of an experiment in education that took place during 1968 on Rivington Street, Shoreditch.

Antiuniversity Now is a festival that challenges academic hierarchy and the exclusivity of education by offering a series of free events in public spaces. Subjects range from puppet power to feminist embroidery, healing sounds to virtual reality.

embroidery, healing sounds to virtual reality.

The festival takes place across the UK and there are over 15 sessions taking place in Hackney at some great local venues such as St Augustine's Tower, Hackney Museum, Clissold Leisure Centre and Arcola Theatre.

The festival is not curated and is entirely led by the organisers of the events and the guests who participate. There are no fees, no entry requirements and no certificates. The ethos of the Antiuniversity is that everyone is a teacher, everyone is a student, and everyone is welcome. So take part in one of the talks, walks, swims, workshops, experiments, performances or interventions and be inspired by the anti-establishmentarianism spirit of 1968.

Statutory notice

Revocation proposal: expansion of Sir Thomas Abney Primary School

In accordance with School Organisation (Prescribed Alterations to Maintained Schools) (England) Regulations 2013, Hackney Learning Trust on behalf of Hackney Council is proposing to revoke a previous decision to expand Sir Thomas Abney Primary School.

Hackney Learning Trust previously proposed to enlarge the school premises at Fairholt Road, London N16 5ED with effect from 1 September 2016. Implementation of this proposal resulted in the school being enlarged from a 420-place primary school, 60 places per year from Reception to Year 6, to a 630-place primary school, 90 places per year from Reception to Year 6.

The statutory notice for the original proposal was published on 8 February 2016 and a decision was taken by Hackney Learning Trust on 8 April 2016 to implement the proposal.

Hackney Learning Trust is of the view that circumstances have so altered since approval to expand the school was given that implementation of the proposal would be inappropriate and is therefore seeking to be relieved of the duty to implement the proposal in this respect.

The approval of the original proposal was made on the grounds of meeting a projected increase in demand for primary places in the area arising from projected demand. However due to the current number of surplus primary places in the borough and a fall in the demand for reception places, the implementation of further additional primary school places at Sir Thomas Abney are no longer required.

Hackney Learning Trust (under Hackney Council) is required by the School Organisation (Prescribed Alterations to Maintained Schools) (England) Regulations 2013 to formally publish revocation proposals where it does not intend to proceed with a previously approved proposal.

Within four weeks from the date of publication of this proposal, any person may object or make comments on this revocation proposal by sending them to: Samantha George, School Place Planning, Hackney Learning Trust, 1 Reading Lane, E8 1GQ or by emailing: Samantha.george@learningtrust.co.uk ul Petersen with St Scholatica's pupils. Clockwise from top: A junior road safety officer; creating sloga UPILS and teachers from 18 Hackney schools came together to discuss how to make the streets outside schools safer.

The workshop at The Tomlinson Centre focused on getting drivers to pay attention to School Keep Clear yellow zig-zag markings.

These indicate that vehicles can't park, or stop, within the markings during certain hours.

There is a problem in Hackney however, with drivers who park on the zig-zags, stop in the road, or park on the pavement when they drop off and pick up their children.

This behaviour puts children at risk, causes congestion, and makes travel more hazardous and unpleasant for other road users.

Congestion around the school gates also increases air pollution, which can have a severe impact on children's health.

Junior road safety officers created slogans and artwork on lollipop signs to help get the message across to parents who drive their children to school.

Council staff and police officers also advised pupils and teachers on how to prepare and plan further campaigns.

The Council wants to reduce the amount of traffic outside schools and make these areas safer and more pleasant, so even more children will walk or cycle.

As well as campaigns to get drivers to pay attention to keep clear signs, the Council has proposed a scheme which will ban cars from roads outside two pilot schools -Tyssen and St John the Baptist – at drop off and pick up times.

Big idea gets royal supporter

TEENAGERS do not typically take tea with royalty, but a group of students from Hackney Community College (HCC) recently received invitations to visit St James's Palace.

They made the visit after being named runners up in a London-wide competition called The Big Idea Challenge. It is run by London Metropolitan University and designed to teach young people how to turn an idea into a business.

The Duke of York, a long-term supporter of the scheme, spoke at the event, explaining that: "The Big Idea Challenge brings learning and enterprise environments together to create ideas that can grow. This is the epitome of what enterprise and entrepreneurship is all about."

The HCC team of Emmanuel Yetbarek, Zakir Choudury, Bobby Okobi and Naim Khan won second prize for their Smartlock idea: a device to open door locks with the fingerprint reader on a smartphone. Emmanuel Yetbarek said: "It's really exciting to be at St James's Palace and to have been named runners up. The best part was meeting The Duke of York. It was inspiring to hear him talk about enterprise."

First choice primary schools

MORE than 86 per cent of families got their first choice of primary school this year, meaning that more children will be going to their preferred school this September.

The new figures are a two per cent increase on the borough's performance last year.

Across London, the proportion of families who received their top choice of school rose from 84 per cent last year, to 86 per cent.

Fundraising efforts for Syria refugees applauded

STUDENTS from Clapton Girls' Academy have raised nearly £7,000 in two months to help a Syrian family, which will shortly arrive in Hackney as refugees.

The Year 12 students raised £6,828.66, which will be delivered through the charity Citizens UK. Their efforts were celebrated at a Refugees Welcome event on 26 April.

The students have met two Syrian families who have already been resettled in the borough through the scheme.

Hafsah Mohammed, Year 12, said: "It was great to find that the language barrier hadn't stopped us from interacting through activities and food! We left with quite a lot to remember and treasure." Elaine Brown, Head of Government and Politics at the academy, added: "I am very proud and inspired by our whole school effort. It is a fantastic achievement which embodies our academy values of compassion, ambition, integrity and resilience."

NEW after school club is launching especially for children who are batty about bats and wild about wildlife.

Called 'In Your Hands', the club is the result of a collaboration between artist-run gallery Standpoint Studios, in Hoxton, and arts and nature project Phytology, based at Bethnal Green Nature Reserve.

Over six weeks, children aged eight to 14, will explore both nature and printmaking techniques to create their own project about bats.

Places cost £120 per child a term, including all materials.

Standpoint also aims to offer four free places to children from disadvantaged backgrounds.

In Your Hands is running as two separate after school clubs, one starting on Tuesday 6 June, the other on Thursday 8 June.

Both clubs will take place from 4.15pm to 5.45pm at Standpoint Studios, N1.

Dalston festival is child's play

FROM carnival crafts to puppet making, children will be spoilt for choice with lots of exciting things to do and see at this year's Dalston Children's Festival.

Taking place across two weekends during half-term —

27 May and 3 June – the free festival is the perfect way for Hackney children to be entertained, while giving families the chance to discover the fun to be had in Dalston all year round.

Highlights include puppet making at Arcola Theatre, music workshops at Vortex Jazz Club, and a performance by Hackney French Youth Theatre at The Rio Cinema.

With creativity and play at the heart of the festival, Dalston's vibrant artistic communities will have activities on offer both indoors and out.

For more information, visit: www.dalstonchildren. org.uk; or pick-up a flyer from Dalston businesses, restaurants, cafes and Dalston CLR James Library. You can also follow Dalston Children's Festival on Twitter using #dalstonchildren or on Facebook.

Carers get advice on fostering a love of reading

AWARD-WINNING author Dreda Say Mitchell delivered an inspiring talk on books and reading to Hackney foster carers on 27 April.

She shared stories about her family and life growing up in East London. The one message that resonated most, was being proud of who you are and building on it. Despite coming from a very humble background, Dreda has achieved success in education, journalism and fiction writing.

She said: "I'm proud of being an East Londoner.

"Books open you to new worlds and all the things friends thought would be a barrier, are what helped me find success in literature."

The event was designed to help foster carers discover new ways of interesting children and young people in reading.

"I grew up in a home where exaggerated stories were frequently shared over games of dominoes and draughts; this introduced me to the concept of characters and fuelled my passion for reading.

"Starting at an early age is advantageous, read about things children like, even if it's a comic or magazine."

A healthy eating programme from Shoreditch Trust

www.shoreditchtrust.org.uk

SHOREDITCH Trust's Food For Life Programme works with members of the local community to encourage affordable healthy eating, cooking skills and food knowledge.

This issue's recipe for a rice noodle salad is a fresh, zingy meal for the longer, sunnier days of spring and summer. It packs in three to four portions of vegetables per serving and loads of flavour.

If people have an intolerance to gluten and wheat, or an allergy to egg, then this is a great recipe for you. Just remember to check that the fish and soy sauce for the dressing are also gluten and wheat-free.

Cooking time 5 mins

Ingredients

For the salad:

- 200g thin rice noodles (cooked and cooled)
- ½ cucumber (chopped or peeled in to thin strips)
- 1 carrot (peeled and grated)
- 3 spring onions (finely chopped)
- 200g spinach, Chinese leaf lettuce or other areens (shredded)
- 50g beansprouts
- 1-2 tablespoons each of chopped

mint, basil and coriander

• 2 tablespoons toasted sesame seeds (optional).

For the dressing:

- 1 red chilli (finely chopped)
- 1 garlic clove (grated)
- 2 tablespoons lime juice
- 2 tablespoons fish sauce
- 1 tablespoon rice vinegar

Method

- Cook the noodles by following the instructions on the package as different brands may have different cooking methods and times. Rinse under cold water when ready
- Wash all of the salad ingredients, then prepare them as specified in the recipe, and mix together in a large bowl with the cold noodles
- Whisk all of the dressing ingredients together. Sprinkle over the salad and combine with the salad until evenly mixed
- Serve and enjoy.

It's simple

The Mayor and councillors

Councillors are elected by residents and serve for four years. The last borough-wide elections took place in May 2014.

Councillors have a range of responsibilities, including helping to oversee Council services

They hold advice surgeries where residents can meet their local representative and ask them to take up issues of concern. Generally they can help with Council related matters. but if the issue is the responsibility of another person or organisation, councillors can often point people in the right direction and tell residents who they need to see. Hackney has 57 councillors representing areas called wards - see map below

Hackney's executive Mayor Philip Glanville, was directly elected by the borough in September 2016. He is the political leader of the Council, overseeing the budget and all Council services. The Mayor holds monthly casework surgeries in the Town Hall. To book an appointment, email: mayor@hackney.gov.uk; or call: 020 8356 3269. Residents are first encouraged to contact their ward councillor. Civic and ceremonial duties are undertaken by the Speaker of Hackney who is chosen annually from the borough's 57 councillors. The current Speaker is Cllr Rosemary Sales.

111 Great Eastern Street London EC2A 3JD An open weave banner mesh advert situated upon a temporary access scaffold during the delayed refurbishment of the host building. The commercial advert space being incorporated into a 1-1 grey montage shroud that covers the stark scaffold. The advert will be displayed from time to time and be illuminated as described and the scaffold, shroud and illumination will be installed as per the attached drawings. It is proposed that the scaffold be rigged off the building with limited standards and tied to the structure at the upper levels. The shroud not covered by the advertisement panel will incorporate a 1-1 grey montage shroud. The shroud is installed to prevent adverse effects from the elements to the building and to help absorb the advert into the urban environment by enhancing the visual amenity. Consent was previously granted for the display of the previously described scaffold, shroud and advert under cover of planning consent reference- 2016/1458 and appeal - App/U5360/Z/16/3152896. The necessary works to the building have been delayed and are now due to complete by 31/12/2017. We therefore seek consent to extend the current planning consent for a further 8month period until 31/12/2017 by which time the works to 111 Great Fastern Street will be complete. 2017/1666 Affects the Setting of a Conservation Area
